Dear Sir,

SUB: Acceptance Letter for 'Entelechy' Website Project

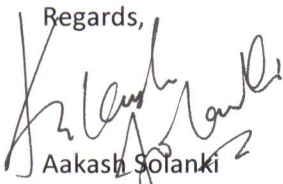

We at Press Club, DA-IICT are satisfied with the new Entelechy Website developed by Team 7 of IT314 Software Engineering as part of their course project. They have met almost all our requirements and have solved all the critical problems we faced on our current website.

However, due to some error in communication between Press Club and the System Administrator regarding server requirements of WordPress 3.5, we weren't able to deploy the new site on the institute server. We need to upgrade PHP on the allotted server to deploy the new site, and we've started the process for the same. The project team has agreed to assist us in deploying the website whenever we get the required server access.

Meanwhile, the project team has shown us all the functionalities of the website by hosting it on an external server, and so we would like to happily accept their developed website.

Lastly, we would like to appreciate the team for their effort – their built website would be a great value addition to the magazine and their systematic documentation will certainly help us in future maintenance and development of the website.

Regards,

Aakash Solanki
